Quest for Quality: Exemplary K-12 Partnerships

TXATE invites universities to nominate exemplary K-12 Partnerships such as Induction Programs, or Continuing Professional Development initiatives that have been developed and implemented through their university teacher preparation programs. These practices are critically important to the success of university-based teacher education programs. Not only do they provide teacher candidates with opportunities to engage in the theory and practice of teaching in context, but they also link universities, teachers, schools and communities in a common goal of improving learning for all children.

Partnerships may involve a single or multiple schools, school districts, and the university. They may take a variety of forms to reflect specific partnership activities and approaches with the goal of improving both teacher preparation and K-12 schools.

Nominations should describe exemplary K-12 Partnerships such as Induction Programs, or Continuing Professional Development initiatives that have been particularly effective in facilitating continuous improvement among all stakeholders. Partnership programs might include, but are not limited to:

- Induction Programs that provide support to beginning teachers
- Professional Development for K-12 teachers in content and/or pedagogy
- Curriculum Enhancement initiatives for both K-12 schools and teacher preparation
- University-School-Community Engagement programs

Descriptions should include:

- Purpose and goals of the initiative
- How the partnership is organized to engage all stakeholders
- Activities undertaken to meet the goals
- Explanation of how the impact of the partnership is monitored and assessed.

Descriptions should be 1000 words (4 pages) maximum. In addition to the description, you should include a few salient artifacts such as brochures or other publications, testimony from partners, media that illustrate the activities undertaken through the partnership, or other evidence of exemplary K-12 Partnerships.
